Honors Introduction to Theatre Studies (Honors ITS) introduces motivated students seeking an enhanced learning experience in a seminar setting that enables a rich intellectual exchange between students and leading faculty in the Department of Drama. In Honors ITS, students study the main historical, theoretical, and practical discourses of the fields of theatre and performance studies. Students develop critical thinking, research and writing skills, and the oral presentation of ideas. Honors ITS is highly recommended for students who have taken honors or upper-level division Theatre, English, and/or History classes in high school or who have the International Baccalaureate degree. The course prepares students for the required courses in Theatre Studies and for the topic seminars in the Honors Program.
